

Episode 14 - "I Got My Guns Loaded"

Conquista Tribe - Night 36

The five remaining members of the Conquista tribe return from Tribal Council. "So much for everybody voting for Jane," Fabio announces. "This is crazy, man," he then says. "Final Five!" Brenda celebrates. "Three more days, dude," Fabio says aloud. "Tonight, we threw a major wrench in the gears of Benry and Alina's plans and sent Benry home, so now I'm the last guy left standing with four women," Fabio laughs. "It took me 36 days to finally make a huge move and...after tonight's Tribal Council where everybody was supposed to vote for Jane, and it turned out Benry and Alina tried to take out Kelly B., you know, it's just hard to trust people, dude." Fabio says that Benry knew he was a huge threat. "It's gonna be an interesting couple days, man; we're right at the finish line," Fabio then says to Kelly B. and Brenda. "I'm with you guys," Brenda assures them. "Myself, Kelly, Brenda, and Jane are gonna have to stay tight and vote Alina off," Fabio then says in another confessional. "What the hell is going on?" Alina asks aloud. "I have no idea what to expect from here on out, she then says. In her confessional, Brenda reveals that she has different plans than Fabio: "Right now, it's pretty obvious that Alina is in deep trouble, but...I don't want to vote Alina off," Brenda divulges. "I would almost keep Alina to the end because I don't think she's played a good strategic game."

Conquista Tribe - Day 37

On Day 37, with only 3 days left in the game, Alina once again finds herself on the outside of the tribe, just like she was at La Flor. "Tribal Council last night sucked," Alina tells the camera. "Benry and I thought we had a plan to take out Kelly B., which pretty much blew up in our faces so...now I'm on the bottom again," she reveals. "I don't have an alliance, but I'm not gonna roll over, that's for sure. I'm still fighting for a million dollars." Jane and Alina then head out on a fishing trip and Alina questions her about voting Benry off: "So what happened last night?" Alina brings up. "We got rid of the one who was calling the shots," Jane answers her. "I totally thought that we were gonna go to the Final Three, that's all," Alina replies. "He was the biggest threat, Alina," Jane then tries to talk some sense into her. "Do you honestly think the jury was gonna let you win against him?" she asks Alina. "They respected him comin' back and dominating!" Alina considers Jane's explanation and then says that she doesn't hate Jane and she's not there to get revenge for Benry. "I mean, I'd appreciate it if you didn't vote for me, <Jane says 'We're good'> but you're obviously gonna play your own game and that's fine," Alina says. "I'm definitely disappointed in Jane," Alina then expresses. "We had a deal with her for Final Three, but...with every Tribal Council she's making it easier and easier to beat her in the finals. I'm also not gonna be a bitch to everybody just because I lost the vote. I've always played my best game when I was in the minority, so...I'll definitely play out of it."

Meanwhile, Fabio and Kelly B. have a conversation in the shelter: "Today and tomorrow are intense days," Fabio says to Kelly B. "I feel like they think I'm the big threat now; they're gonna want me out next," Fabio then worries. Kelly B. disagrees. "Brenda's with us," she assures him. Kelly B. then says that the next one out should be Jane, not Alina. Fabio asks why Jane. "Cause Jane'll be stronger in the [final] Immunity Challenge," Kelly B. explains. Fabio says to just make sure than Brenda is on-board. Brenda then expresses her thoughts in her confessional: "My alliance right now is with Fabio and Kelly B., and who better to take to the Final Three?" Brenda poses to the camera. "They didn't get here on their own. They sailed here to Final Five on the S.S. Brenda," she laughs, "so...I mean, we can vote for whoever we want; it doesn't really matter, and right now, it'll probably be Jane." Fabio and Jane then arrive back at camp with treemail and read it aloud to the rest of their tribe. "Getting Immunity today is extremely important," Alina says in her confessional. "I really want to fight hard and if I'm going down, I'm going down with a fight. That's who I am."

Immunity Challenge - Donkey Dig

The Final Five castaways arrive on their mat. Host Jeff Probst explains the rules of this Immunity challenge. The Survivors will each race out to a station where they will find a question about Nicaragua. They will select their answer from two choices and select the corresponding bag and race back. If they are right, the bag will contain valid puzzle pieces. If they are wrong, the pieces will be black and they will have to go back and get the correct bag. Once they have answered all three questions and collected all three bags of puzzle pieces, they will use the pieces to solve a puzzle. First person to solve the puzzle wins Immunity with a one in four shot at the million-dollar prize. They all get off to a good start getting the first question right (Honduras is the country north of Nicaragua). On the second question, Fabio and Jane get it wrong by answering Gold Coast vs. the correct answer Mosquito Coast, as the name of the eastern coast of Nicaragua. So, a frustrated Fabio loses time and has to go back for the other bag, with Jane hot on his trail. Meanwhile, Kelly B., Alina, and Brenda get question three right on the first try (the answer is Conquistadores) and start working on their puzzles. The completed puzzle is the Survivor logo. In a close race between Brenda and Kelly B., Kelly B. pulls out the win. "Good thing I studied up before we got out here," Kelly B. tells Jeff as he hands her the necklace. "The fact that I won the Immunity Challenge means that Alina didn't win; Jane didn't win, and...it's another day that I can compete for the million dollars," Kelly B. says in her confessional. "Tonight is gonna be Jane's turn to go and then myself, Fabio, and Brenda are gonna go to the Final Three," she then states.

Conquista Tribe - Day 37

As Conquista returns to camp after the challenge, Alina heads off on her own while Jane checks with the other three castaways about who they're voting for. "I think it's obvious," Fabio responds. "Alina?" Jane then asks. "That's who I'm gonna write down," Fabio tells her. "We have another Tribal Council tonight," Kelly B. narrates. "Unfortunately, we're at a point in the game where you have to be deceptive; you have to deceive people a little bit, so we're telling Jane that Alina's the target because that's what everyone agreed when we voted out Benry, but really, we're voting for Jane." Jane then begins to walk away from the others and Kelly B. asks if she's gone. Fabio tells her "Yeah." "Every time we've had an endurance challenge, Jane's been really strong," Kelly B. then continues her confessional, "so I think it's the smartest strategic move to take her out tonight." Kelly B. and Fabio then propose the idea of voting Jane out: "The thing is Jane has a really good chance of winning the final Immunity, so...if we want to go to the Final Three, I think we should take her out," Kelly B. rationalizes. "If she's gonna be a bigger threat to us getting to the Final Three." Fabio then reminds her that they would just have to beat Alina tomorrow and Alina hasn't won Immunity. "Of course," Brenda replies. "All of a sudden Fabio and KB are starting to think strategy, on Day 37," Brenda laughs in her confessional, "so...they're making an argument for Jane before Alina, which is fine because Jane was my target last time, so I guess tonight is gonna be Jane."

Meanwhile, Alina still feels that she is in the hot seat after losing her closest ally at the last Tribal Council: "I'm definitely thinking that I'm the easiest person to get rid of, but you never know. This game is unpredictable," she tells the camera. "I think my plea to stay is gonna be to split up Fabio and Kelly," she then reveals. In an attempt to save herself, Alina approaches Brenda with this new plan. Brenda confides in Alina that Fabio and Kelly B. are targeting Jane and not her. Alina is surprised and asks "Really?" Brenda reveals that Jane is a bigger threat to win an endurance challenge. "That's fine," Alina says. "I still think this is our best strategic move." "Tell me why we should keep Jane," Brenda then says. "Honestly, who cares if she wins the last Immunity?" Alina reasons with Brenda. "She's never gonna win the game. The jury's not gonna vote for her so that makes her the perfect person to take to the Final Three." Jane then walks over to Brenda and Alina to join in their conversation: "I mean, I never would have predicted that I'd be forming another alliance with Brenda and Jane," Alina tells the camera, "but...it's bizarre to me that Brenda would want to vote out Jane over Fabio. Like, do we want to keep two people who are probably never gonna break in the Final Four [Kelly B. and Fabio] or people who don't have a strong loyalty to each other?" Alina now fills Jane in on her idea: "I think it makes more sense to break up Fabio and Kelly B.," Alina insists. "No matter who gets Immunity, they're not gonna vote for each other [at the Final Four]." "Yeah; and vote out Fabio," Jane considers. "And they literally haven't pissed off a single person on the jury," Alina adds. "We have." "I mean, Na doesn't like me," Alina then laughs. "Oh, I've pissed off the lot of 'em," Jane then admits. In her confessional, Brenda admits that Alina made a strong argument: "You know, Kelly B. and Fabio haven't done anything to get here, but they also don't have any enemies on the jury," she explains. "Not one single person is mad at them, so maybe it is better for me to go to the Final Three with Alina and Jane." "Are you sure you trust me?" Alina later asks Brenda on the beach. "Yeah; I trust you," Brenda tells her. Alina says that she would be proud to lose to Brenda, but wouldn't want to lose to Fabio or Kelly B. "Honestly, I think I have a dilemma because I could probably win against any of the four that are left, so it's just who do I want in the Finals with me?" Brenda then asks in another confessional.

Back at the main camp area, Fabio and Kelly B. begin to second-guess that their plan to vote out Jane will work: "Why is nobody talking to us?" he asks Kelly B. "Nothing else has to be said," Kelly B. assures him, still thinking Jane will go home. Brenda then arrives back at the shelter. "Everything's good, right?" Fabio asks her. "Tonight either Fabio or Jane is gonna go home," Brenda summarizes. "And I don't know yet because I don't want to blindside Fabio; you know, I already did that with Shannon and it was a mistake. It'll probably cost me his vote, so...my mind is going all over the place." "I just hope that Jane goes home tonight, and we can get Alina tomorrow," Fabio expresses to Kelly B., as the Conquista members grab their torches. "Tonight, if everybody sticks to the plan, you know, Jane's getting voted out but I've had this feeling all day that people are lying to me," Fabio says in his confessional. "I don't know if they're voting Alina; uh, I don't know if it's me. Maybe I'm just paranoid, dude, so...we'll see how it plays out," Fabio then concludes.

Tribal Council #15 - Conquista Tribe

At Tribal Council, Jeff reminds the Conquista members that it has been 37 hard-fought days in the game. "Jane, did you think you'd make it this far?" Jeff asks her. "I absolutely knew I'd make it this far," Jane confidently responds. "I think I've played a great game and I'm not ready to go home." Jeff then points out that if things stay the same as the previous Tribal Council, then Alina is in big trouble. "Yeah; I mean, the vote at last Tribal really caught me off-guard," Alina admits, "but...I could be sad and depressed and mope around or I could keep playing my game and figure out a way to stay." "Kelly B., any regrets about voting Benry out?" Jeff then asks. "You know, I really don't," Kelly B. then acknowledges. "I feel confident that, if Benry was here, he probably would have won [Immunity] today. It was the last chance that Fabio and I had to change the game, and if we didn't take advantage of it, we don't deserve to win the million dollars." "So Jane, there are four original La Flor members; you're the last of the original Espada tribe," Jeff reminds everyone. "They could easily just say 'Let's stick together tonight and figure out what to do with each other tomorrow.'" "Well, here's the thing with that, okay?" Jane then responds. "It is a million dollars at stake and...there's gonna be more than people on the jury. They're not going to give an old person the money so...I think it'd be stupid of them to get rid of me tonight." "On the other hand, Fabio, you got four women here," Jeff then points out. "Yeah; you know, I'm definitely a little worried about girl power, man," Fabio agrees, "but...I've trusted Kelly B. and Brenda from pretty early on and it's gotten me this far, so I just have to keep my trust in them, dude; I don't see why they would switch."

"Brenda, how big of a factor is tonight's vote from a point of 'who can I beat?'" Jeff poses. "It's huge," Brenda replies. "No one wants to go to the Final Three and then lose. Are you kidding me? So, of course, you have to be looking at every single person, even the people in your alliances, and you have to be thinking about who you can beat." Jeff then asks Fabio what factors he's thinking about for this vote: "There's a lot of different factors," Fabio begins. "Um...you gotta think about who might vote for who on the jury; you know, who's the biggest threat for the million; who's played a good game. You gotta think of who could possibly beat you in the last Immunity Challenge..." Jeff points out that, based on youth and physicality, it seems that Fabio would be a big threat to win the final Immunity. "Um...I think the biggest threat is actually Jane," Fabio tells him, redirecting the focus. "She's got a lot of endurance, man; she's proved that. And...I can't sit still," he then laughs. "So Jane, Fabio's pointing the finger at you," Jeff recaps. "What do you say to get that target off of your back and back onto somebody else's?" he then asks her. "Well, the tightest two in the tribe is Fabio and Kelly B.," Jane then answers. "So I think we need to split them up instead of giving them half the votes in the Final Four." "What happened to Alina all of a sudden?" Fabio then brings up, realizing that the vote might now be between Jane and himself, rather than Alina. Alina sharply turns her head, causing Jeff to ask her the final question: "So Alina, what chances do you give yourself that it's not you tonight?" "I'm definitely optimistic," Alina responds. "I hustled today and...I think it's gonna work out my way." With this, the five Conquista members cast their votes.

Jeff then tallies the votes and reveals them one at a time to the tribe:

JANE.

FABIO.

"One vote Fabio; one vote Jane."

FABIO.

"That's two votes Fabio; one vote Jane," Jeff recaps.

JANE.

"We're tied: two votes Fabio; two votes Jane; one vote left."

"Fifteenth person voted out of Survivor: Nicaragua and the eighth member of our jury..."

FABIO.

In the end, Judson "Fabio" Birza is voted out of the game in a split 3-2 decision. He will become the eighth member of the jury. Jeff then congratulates four women on making it to the Final Four for the first time in Survivor history.

Conquista Tribe - Night 37

As the Final Four, Kelly B., Alina, Brenda, and Jane return to camp from Tribal Council, they congratulate each other for getting this far in the game. "Coming back from Tribal Council, I was still really shocked," Kelly B. admits. "Brenda betrayed me and Fabio, so...I didn't feel like I had too much to celebrate." Talking by the shelter, Kelly B. says that she doesn't understand why Brenda would vote out Fabio when they had a guaranteed spot in the Final Three. "Jane's just easier to win against," Brenda justifies. "Well, you could have let us know," Kelly B. then tells her. She then continues her confessional: "But, I figure if Alina can come back strong after losing Benry, I can too and...I wasn't gonna let them see a reaction out of me. We've got a million dollars on the line and I definitely think I can still win." Meanwhile, Alina, Brenda, and Jane chat by the fire. "I think it's so funny that we never even had a girl alliance," Alina then comments. "I know; it just worked itself out that way," Brenda agrees. "I definitely think it's time for another strong woman to win this game," Brenda says in her confessional. "You know, no coattails; I want strategy. Someone who thought for herself, and...it's funny because we've all been aligned, but none of us are extremely close, so...we'll duke it out and see who wins." Jane then asks to be sure that it's Kelly B. next. "Cause that would make the most sense," she says. Alina and Brenda then agree. "We're gonna have to lie to Kelly B., but I'm loyal to you guys," Brenda promises. "I'm with you." "You know, I feel bad that I had to switch alliances, but...it's very important that Jane, Alina, and myself stay strong because we're planning on taking each other [to the Final Three]," Brenda tells the camera. "If Kelly B. wins tomorrow, she gets the million dollars..."

Later that night, as the younger women are asleep in the shelter, Jane sneaks down to the beach and cooks a fish that she saved from earlier in the day: "I waited until we went to bed and I'm going to secretly cook me a fish tonight - that I caught," Jane narrates, while preparing her late-night meal. "Cause I'll do anything to give me an advantage in the final Immunity Challenge over these young girls. The way I look at it, I brought most of the food in to this camp so I can do with it as I please," she says, as she enjoys her meal.

Conquista Tribe - Day 38

The next morning, Kelly B. is still not feeling comfortable and checks in with Alina and Brenda about bringing each other to the Final Three. "I think it would be cool to have the three younger girls," she tells them. Brenda assures Kelly B. to her face that they will stick together. "We deserve it more than Jane," she says. Kelly B. says that they just have to make sure she doesn't win Immunity. "The whole argument that Fabio and I were making at the last Tribal Council was that Jane is the strongest when it comes to endurance challenges," Kelly B. tells the camera. "If you've seen this game, the final challenge almost always comes down to will-power, so Jane is definitely the one to beat. But at the same time, I'm an athlete; I'm competitive, so I know I'm gonna give her a fight." The three younger women then continue their conversation: "Are we gonna kick butt today?" Kelly B. asks them. "I hope so," Alina says. "I know we'll kick butt," Brenda then laughs. "I also talked to the other girls and I feel pretty confident they've got my back, but then again, you never know," Kelly B. says in another confessional. "Who do you think you would vote if Jane wins Immunity today?" Kelly B. asks Brenda privately. "I have no idea," Brenda tells her. "I can't even imagine..." Kelly B. then reiterates that they have to make sure that doesn't happen. "So...as far as Kelly B. knows, our goal is for anyone but Jane to win Immunity," Brenda recaps, "but in reality, the goal is for anyone but Kelly B. to win, because she is the biggest [jury] threat."

Alina then arrives back at camp with treemail, which contains a sword and gives them a map to find the torches of their fallen comrades. At each torch they will collect a representative shield of those who were voted out before them. At the end of the journey, they will burn them to pay their respects and will then proceed to their final Immunity Challenge. "It's such an honor to be taking part in the final Rites of Passage," Alina tells the camera. "Like, we've fought against 20 people who played their asses off and...it's a huge accomplishment to be one of the four people who gets to pay my respects to them."

Rites of Passage

The Final Three make their way to the top of a mountain where they pay their respects to each of the castaways that had been voted out: Kelly S., Holly, Jimmy J., Yve, Dan, Chase, Sash, Wendy, Tyrone, Shannon, NaOnka, Marty, Jill, Jimmy T., Benry, and Fabio. After all of the representative shields have been collected, they burn them in a small fire pit and prepare themselves for the final Immunity Challenge. "I think we were all emotional after the Rites of Passage," Kelly B. expresses. "You know, you're sad for the people who left before you but happy you're still in the game, and...this challenge is huge today," she continues. "I feel like so much is on the line right now. It definitely doesn't get any bigger than this."

Final Immunity Challenge - Balancing Point

The Final Four Conquista members enter the final challenge and arrive on their mat. Host Jeff Probst explains the rules of the challenge. Each Survivor will have a sword. With one hand they will balance the sword on a shield. With their other hand, they will stack coins on the handle of the sword. As the stack of coins gets higher, it will get more difficult to balance. When the stack becomes too high, the coins will fall and they will then be out of the challenge. The last person standing wins final Immunity and a guaranteed spot at the Final Tribal Council.

The challenge begins by putting a medium sized coin on the handle of the sword. The Survivors have five seconds to place the coin before having to remove their hand from the handle of the sword. Everyone gets through placing the first nine coins with ease. Brenda almost loses it as the tenth coin is placed on the stack and causes it to wobble, but she quickly stabilizes it. After a few more rounds, a coin hits the ground from Alina's stack and she is out of the challenge. Two rounds later, Brenda is next out as her stack falls when she tries to add another coin. Kelly B. and Jane now battle it out for a guaranteed spot in the final Tribal Council. After adding five more coins, Kelly B. slips up and drops her stack of coins, granting Jane the final Immunity. "Final Tribal Council, honey!" Jane excitedly celebrates. Kelly B. is visibly disappointed and frustrated but tries to put on a happy face. "Jane won the final Immunity Challenge so now it looks like it's gonna be Kelly B. going home," Brenda summarizes in her confessional. "She's about to get her head chopped off."

Conquista Tribe - Day 38

As they return to camp, Jane is delighted to be in the driver's seat and have the other three scramble. "When we came back into camp, I felt on top of the world," Jane narrates. "I was just relieved to have Immunity around my neck, so now I get to sit back and watch these other three run around like little chickens with their heads cut off. And I'll tell you what, I'm gonna enjoy it," she then laughs. The three former La Flor members are in somber moods as they gather around the fire and chat about the vote. "It was painful to watch [Jane win Immunity]," Brenda brings up. "I just 100% wish it didn't happen..." "So fate is not in our hands," Kelly B. brings up to the other younger women. "It's out of our hands," Alina then agrees. "I knew it was kind of a longshot to get Immunity," Alina laments. "Losing my stack of coins in the challenge was so frustrating, because I am a competitor. So right now, I'm feeling pretty vulnerable," Kelly B. tells the camera. "You know, this was my opportunity. This was my chance to guarantee myself safety into the Final Three and I came up short so...it sucks. I'm bummed." "I don't want to have to leave this game," Kelly B. says to Alina. Alina says that she thinks this would be the hardest night to leave because you're so close to the end. "Just tell me where your head's at," Kelly B. requests. "We're all trying to figure out how this is gonna play out," Alina says, not wanting to reveal her strategy. "The second Kelly B. lost Immunity, everyone was thinking Kelly B.," Alina reveals. "It sounds so awful, but...she has to go because of her leg and it was just an unspoken thing." Jane then joins Alina and Brenda by the fire. "Ready to go to the Final Three?" Jane asks them. The three women then quickly discuss the vote and decide to vote out Kelly B. "Cool," Brenda agrees. "Oh my god! I feel so bad; I feel so evil," Alina expresses. "Sometimes, you know, you have to be super mean to win a million dollars," Brenda then tells them. Meanwhile, Kelly B. immediately senses that she is in danger: "I know that they're, like, whispering behind my back because I'm the obvious one that should go," Kelly B. says in another confessional. "So...I guess my strategy for tonight is to try to get Brenda and Alina to vote against each other and hopefully get the attention off of me."

As they gather firewood, Kelly B. makes a case to Alina about voting for Brenda. Later, Kelly B. approaches Brenda on the beach and they both ask each other what they're thinking. "I'm kind of stuck [about who to vote for]," Brenda admits. "I mean, I've trusted you since the beginning so I'm hoping I have you on my side," Kelly B. pleads to Brenda. "Definitely," Brenda tells her. "I need you on my side too." "So I think our biggest threat with the jury is Alina," Kelly B. then states. "There's nobody besides Na that just, outright wouldn't vote for her." "Kelly B., she's scrambling, but...Kelly B. is Alina with one leg," Brenda expresses in her confessional. "I know that sounds bad, whatever, but...I honestly don't see a huge difference between Alina and Kelly B., so I'll probably make my mind up at Tribal Council." With Tribal Council looming, Kelly B. and Jane talk in the shelter: "Who do you think?" Jane asks her. "I think Brenda's played a really good game," Kelly B. suggests. "I guess it all comes down to the jury and who's the bigger threat, but...I think the bigger threat is Alina." "How do you think the vote would go if it was me, you, and Brenda?" Jane inquires. "It's hard to say. People see me more as a follower of Brenda," Kelly B. answers. "And with Alina?" Jane then asks. "I think she'll get Benry and Shannon's votes for sure," Kelly B. says. "I just really hope that you're on my side," Kelly B. pleads with her. "Well...I do want to see you go to the end," Jane acknowledges. "I might cast my vote for Alina cause I like Kelly B. and I might let them do a fire-makin' challenge," Jane contemplates before Tribal Council. "May the best woman win," she says as the Final Four castaways make their way to Tribal Council.

Tribal Council #16 - Conquista Tribe

At Tribal Council, Jeff gets right into it. "So Alina, big night tonight," he begins. "Tonight's huge because this is the last night that any of us will have control over our own fate," Alina answers. "So hopefully we're making the right decision." Jeff then congratulates Jane on winning the final Immunity Challenge. "Must have been a fun afternoon. I'm guessing everybody wanted to talk to Jane..." he then brings up. "Oh, yeah," Jane tells him. "They all made their arguments; some of us got together and talked, so...I'm gonna think about each one of 'em and, uh, I'm gonna make a decision." "Kelly B., we get back from the challenge and you go to Jane. What's your plea?" Jeff asks her. Kelly B. recounts that she asked Jane whether she would be more likely to vote for Brenda or Alina, and that they talked about it both ways because "they're definitely both threats." "What about Brenda makes her a threat when it comes to the jury?" Jeff poses. "I think that Brenda would have an edge if the jury votes more strategically, and I think Alina would have an edge if they vote more on likability," Kelly B. responds. "You just never know." "Alina, what do you say to Jane this afternoon? Why should it not be you?" Jeff then asks her. "Well, I think it should be Kelly B.," Alina answers. "I think people have really underestimated Kelly's game. She hasn't pissed anybody off; she's made great relationships with a lot of people on the jury and I'll tell you right now, she'll definitely get votes from Fabio and Jill." Kelly B. refutes this point by saying that Alina would get Benry's and Shannon's votes. "Brenda, what was your pitch to Jane?" Jeff questions. "Kelly B.," Brenda openly admits, backing Alina up. "Point blank. Because even if she doesn't get a sympathy vote, it's still too big a risk. Maybe in another game, I'd take Kelly to the end but not when there's a million dollars on the line." Jeff establishes that, all things considered, it's pretty even between Alina and Kelly B. "Is the fact that Kelly B. has a prosthetic leg really the deciding factor?" he questions Brenda. "Yeah. It's sad because that's the only reason [to vote her out over Alina]," Brenda admits. "But it shouldn't make a difference," Kelly B. insists. "I came into this game just like everyone else and I don't want to win the game because of a sympathy vote," she continues. "I want to win because I was a strong competitor and I played a good game." "It can't be a surprise on Day 38 that they would look at you and see that as a threat," Jeff says to Kelly B. "It's not a surprise," Kelly B. tells him. "I guess I'm just disappointed. I think it's an excuse. I think it's an easy way out. Like, 'Oh, she only has one leg; we have to get her out,' but...I've never used my leg for sympathy. So why would Tribal Council be any different?" "So now Jane, the decision becomes 'who do you want to sit next to in the end?'" "Uh huh," Jane agrees. "For me, it's Alina or Kelly tonight. My vote's gonna be based on who I think I can beat for the million dollars," she then declares. "End of story." With this, the four Conquista members cast their votes.

Jeff tallies the votes and reveals them one at a time to the tribe:

KELLY B.

ALINA.

“One vote Alina; one vote Kelly B.,” Jeff recaps.

KELLY B.

“That’s two votes Kelly B.; one vote Alina,” Jeff then recaps.

“Sixteenth person voted out of Survivor: Nicaragua and the ninth member of our jury...”

KELLY B.

When Jeff reads the votes, Kelly B. feels the sting of betrayal after 38 days in the game. In a unanimous decision, she becomes the ninth and final member of the jury.

Conquista Tribe - Night 38

As they return from Tribal Council, Alina, Brenda, and Jane celebrate making it to the end. “I’m really happy it’s us three,” Jane comments. Brenda then says that if Kelly B. had played that hard all along, she might have made it to the Final Three. “Honestly, I bet she could have won even without a sympathy vote,” Alina brings up. “It wouldn’t have been a sympathy vote; it would have been a respect vote,” Alina then corrects herself. “Totally,” Brenda agrees. “Coming back from Tribal Council, I was so excited,” Alina glows in her confessional. “I can’t believe I’m in the Final Three. To finally know, like, there’s no more Tribal Councils; no more alliances; no more blindsides, it’s a huge sigh of relief and I’m peaceful with everything that happened out here. I think, for once, I might sleep like a baby tonight,” she laughs.

Conquista Tribe - Day 39

As the sun rises on Day 39, Alina is the first to climb out of the shelter: “To wake up and see sunshine on Day 39 was so awe-inspiring,” Alina narrates. “You know, between the beaches, the howler monkeys, Nicaragua is such a beautiful place and I’m so thankful to still be in this game. This has been literally the best experience of my life; I’ve loved every second of it, so it’s gonna be sad to see it go.” Brenda, Alina, and Jane then check treemail and are awarded an abundance of breakfast food including bread, eggs, sausages, pancakes, and orange juice. “I can’t believe we did this,” Alina says. As they are enjoying their meal, they toast to making it to Day 39. “We had a great toast to the Final Three and...to smell the breakfast cooking was just amazing,” Brenda recalls in her confessional. “It was the perfect way to celebrate 39 days of starving and suffering in the rainforest,” she then laughs. "Oh my gosh, this is amazing," Alina exclaims. "This couldn't be the more perfect breakfast right now," Brenda then agrees. She then finishes her confessional: "But...I didn't come out here to win breakfast; I came out here to win a million dollars, and that's what I'm gonna do tonight," Brenda smiles.

Later in the day, Jane goes for a walk on a rocky section of the beach and collects various shells: "I am definitely making the most of my last 24 hours in Nicaragua," Jane tells the camera, "cause...when I get home I'll be back to groomin' dogs, trainin' dogs, goin' to the dog shows. You know, I made some enemies along the way, but...I'm not ashamed of anything I did," she continues her confessional. "I'm gonna make it clear to the jury why they're sittin' in the jury and why I'm in the Finals, and...if they don't want to deal with reality, they can go suck an egg," she laughs. Back at camp, Alina and Brenda pack their bags as they prepare for their final moments at camp. "I can't believe it's over," Alina expresses. "This is when we're gonna find out who wins this whole game," Brenda sums up the importance of the final Tribal Council. "Jane, she did play a strategic game, but people don't like her. She betrayed the whole older tribe," Brenda continues. "Alina's the underdog, and...I'm just Brenda, but...I have reasons why I deserve it more than them." The Final Three Conquista members then burn their shelter as a tribute to the past 39 days. "Look at it burn!" Jane exclaims, at the raging fire. "The three little pyro's," Brenda laughs. "Man, this was fun," Jane says aloud. "I wish I could do it again!" she then laughs. "I hope I don't have to do it again," Brenda says next. "Brenda's so cocky cause she thinks she has this, but...I want to win this game bad," Alina then says. "I'm not gonna roll over and just let the jury give her the check. Like, nobody's gonna hand this over to you; it's a million dollars." The three castaways then grab torches and take one last look at their camp. "Off to Tribal," Jane then sings. "The Final Tribal," Brenda says. "I played the best game by far, hands-down; I never even got a vote [against me] this whole time, so...I mean, it's too good for second place," Brenda declares. "My message going into the final Tribal Council is 'You better watch out.' I got my guns loaded," she laughs.

Final Tribal Council - Conquista Tribe

At the final Tribal Council, the three remaining women give their opening statements. Jane is up first and attempts to explain her villainous gameplay to the jury: "Alright; I didn't come into this game thinking I was gonna be a backstabber-liar," she begins. "My main strategy was #1, to find an alliance and be loyal to that alliance, and I was. I was loyal to them while they went behind my back and voted Danny out while lettin' me believe it was Jill goin', okay? Then they voted Tyrone out. And by the time the tribes merged, it was writing on the wall that Marty and Jimmy T. was gonna vote me out and take Jill with them to the Final Three for an easier win. <Jill now raises her eyebrows> So at that point, I had me a decision to make. Either get voted out or start playin' the game like they were playin'. I decided to flip to La Flor because there were more young kids left in the game and I knew that we could go all the way. So all I did was change up the game and all of a sudden, I'm this big villain? Last time I remember, Marty and J.T., you stabbed Danny in the back way before I ever stabbed you. Okay; I did do a lot of scheming and conniving; I lied my brains out when I had to, but there was always a reason why I did something. I even snuck me a fish a couple nights ago to give me a leg up in the final Immunity Challenge,” she laughs. <A prominent drumbeat is heard, as Marty tenses his expression> “The reason why I’m much more deserving than these two is because it was me jumping ship on Espada that caused the whole domino effect that landed us three here tonight. If y’all don’t respect that, so be it and I’ll deal with the consequences, but...I made it 39 days and damn it, I’m givin’ myself a pat on the back.”

Survivor: Nicaragua Fanfic

Alina then makes her opening statement to the jury, emphasizing her will to stay in the game even when things didn’t go her way: “I’m very proud of the game I played. I played this game strong and I played this game smart,” she insists. “Even if I wasn’t in the majority, I made sure I hustled, whether it was finding the idol or making sure that I could get the votes so I wasn’t the next one voted out. I never won individual Immunity once, so I never had the necklace to hide behind, but...I mean, I definitely fought hard in the challenges; I don’t think any of you can say I was weak. You know, I feel like I worked hard around camp; <Shannon is shown nodding his head> I was definitely a provider. And I was real; I was always cool with everyone, even if you were not in my alliance. For most of the game, I was probably the underdog but I did play strategically. So I hope you really think about who played a more strategic game and vote for who deserves to win the game, not just the million dollars.”

Brenda then greets the nine jury members before beginning her opening statement: “I came into the game thinking that I was gonna flirt and use my looks to my advantage, but it wasn’t necessary; I used my brain,” she begins. “I had an intelligent, smart strategy. I aligned with Sash and NaOnka very early on because I knew that people didn’t like them and I could use them to get far <NaOnka is now shown harshly raising her eyebrows>, but what you didn’t see is I was calling the shots; they were my puppets. And...I think I knew what was going on in the game more than anyone else. And one other thing, whether I voted you off or betrayed you, every person on the jury that I was on the tribe with, I took the time to genuinely get to know your background and your families and life stories, and it wasn’t because it was part of a strategy. You know, that’s real; alliances change. This is Survivor. I mean, that’s just the way it goes, but the relationships behind those alliances, those are the real deal. Basically, I did what I had to do from the first second I stepped on that beach to the last second and...I think I played this game too good for second place. I truly believe that,” she finishes.

The jury then addresses Brenda, Alina, and Jane, asking them vital questions to help make their decisions of who is the most worthy of the million-dollar prize. Shannon is up first.

Shannon says that he wants no response from any of them because he will not be asking questions, but has a couple things to get off of his chest. “Brenda, I was in an alliance with you, and you let me get blindsided over a stupid move cause if I would have come back into the game, I would’ve been coming after you. Am I aggravated? Yeah; I’m aggravated, but I can forgive you for you blindsiding me; what I can’t forgive you for is taking away a million dollars from my wife and my family. So you screwed up on that one and I'm gonna make sure that it comes back to haunt you tonight," he warns her. "Jane, no offense; I don't really know you," he then continues his speech. "Um...I'd like to lose to the best; I don't want to lose to other losers, so...Alina, you're gonna get my vote. Good job. Game well played. <He gives her a thumbs up> You know, you fought the hardest; you worked frickin' hard around camp, and...my only regret is that I didn't team up with you and Benry and Chase sooner and we could have run the game and owned all these morons, <A wide view of the jury is shown, as Benry smiles> so...I hope you win it and I hope you stuff the check in Brenda's face cause, if not for her own stupidity, this game might have been hers."

Tyrone is next up. "I'm sorry they screwed you, honey," Jane says to him before he begins to speak. Tyrone tells Jane that she was loyal to him, but the example she set in the second half of the game was no better than Marty or Jimmy T. "In fact, it was much worse, in my opinion," he then criticizes her. "You know, if you're gonna stand up for loyalty, you have to do it consistently," he says, before moving on to his question. "My question is for all three of you: especially the two younger ladies, you know, we never got the chance to be on the same tribe so I know you don't have anything to say to me," he tells them. He then says that he will give them all a chance to say something to another jury member that they haven't gotten the opportunity to say. Brenda apologizes to Shannon for blindsiding him and not telling him what her plan was. "It wasn't to get you out of the game," she then clarifies. "It was because you were the one that I thought could beat Benry at the duel." She reminds him that she was the one who brought him into the alliance with Sash and NaOnka and says that she hopes he'll reconsider his vote. Alina tells Fabio that she wishes she would have taken him on the Reward and let him spend time with his mom because she knows they only see each other a couple times a year. "That's the one thing that stands out to me," she finishes. Jane then gives her answer: "I just want to tell Benry that I think he's awesome and he deserved to win the whole thing," Jane begins. "But...we had to vote him out and it was a great move because you're so darn strong," she then says to Benry.

Jeff then calls on Jill: "My question is for Brenda and Alina," she begins. "I'd like for you to rate yourself 1-10, overall, how you think you played the game and then rate the person sitting next to you 1-10, same criteria." Brenda gives herself a 9. "I was definitely a calculating player. I don't think Alina or Jane are better than me, and I made one mistake - with Shannon - in 39 days. That's the only one. And how many votes did I get? None. So I think that speaks for itself..." she explains. Brenda gives Alina a 3 at first and then says "maybe a 4." "Her strategic game in the early La Flor, terrible," Brenda criticizes Alina. "She aligned with [the minority] Benry and Chase; they didn't have a majority, and she was on the outside of every vote we cast. Me, Sash, and NaOnka, we had that game won. The only reason Alina got to the merge was because she pulled the idol on Sash. And then she just followed whatever Benry said when he came back, <Marty is shown nodding his head> so...not a strong game overall." Alina gives herself an 8. "Clearly, I didn't play a perfect game but I think I did everything fairly well and I was able to survive so many Tribal Councils in the minority," she explains. "My game was probably not as cutthroat as Brenda's; I mean, the only people I targeted were NaOnka, Marty, and Fabio [at Final Five] and I didn't burn any bridges. There's no animosity." Alina then gives Brenda a 7, admitting that Brenda also played a good game and did a lot of things well. "Brenda's biggest mistake – and I think she'll admit this – her biggest mistake was voting off Shannon. Um, she should have taken me out and separated me and Benry because we pretty much controlled the game after the merge and...it definitely hurt her in the game to make that move and vote Shannon out." Jill then addresses her nemesis, Jane: "You know, I would ask Jane, but the answer's clearly a 1 in my book, so...I don't need to hear anything from you." "And guess what? I ain't gonna lose no sleep over it," Jane then interrupts her. "Even though you have your own reasons for flipping on Espada, I mean, you could have done it at Final Seven; you could have done it at Final Five, and you certainly didn't need to treat us the way you did, so...that's all I've got," Jill finishes.

Marty is next up and begins with some harsh words for Jane, claiming that she was a despicable player and a poor representative of North Carolina. "My question to you is, would your state be proud to be represented by someone who lied more times than I can count, who backstabbed almost everybody on the jury, and who admittedly stole fish before the Final Immunity Challenge? And more importantly, would your husband be proud of the way you played the game?" he then asks. Jane is offended and responds harshly as well: "Okay; first of all, who do you think you are bringing up his name like you know the man?" she shoots back. "Second of all, I know Don would be proud because he knows this is a game and I'm sittin' in the Final Three and he knows who I am outside of this game. Third of all, I didn't steal any food; I caught my own food instead of lazin' and lounging in the shelter and waitin' for someone to bring it to me, like most of y'all did. Okay?!'" "Fair enough," Marty replies. He then continues his speech and addresses the other two finalists: "Jane, obviously I'm not gonna vote for," he dismisses Jane's answer. "Brenda, I get your game; you certainly played the game the way I like to see it played, so congratulations. Which brings me to Alina," Marty continues his speech. "Um, I did align myself with you and Benry and promised that we would take each other to Final Six. Somehow I got ninth. I don't know; maybe you guys can't count, but...as far as I'm concerned, your opening statement was meaningless fluff, okay? I think you had more luck on your side than anybody else in this game. You got lucky that you found an idol. It was your good fortune that the person who came back from Redemption Island happened to be your strongest ally. And coasting through the merge by riding Benry's coattails is not gonna cut it when it comes to the million dollars. You know, I couldn't help but laugh to myself when you said to vote for the 'most strategic player.' You might as well have told us to just hand Brenda the check," he finishes. "I am a strategic player," Alina defends herself. "You know, I totally did coast through the merge and I admit that. <Tyrone is shown shifting his expression> I hated flying under the radar but I knew that that was my safest alliance because Benry was a huge threat and, unless he won Immunity, he would be the target over me every time, but...Benry was on Redemption Island for fifteen days on La Flor and those were not an easy fifteen days. I played my ass off, and I had to take care of myself because I was on the outs with my tribe." She tells Marty that it was not luck at all that she found the idol because she turned the beach upside down and that she played her best game when she was in the minority. "My best move was getting Brenda to vote out Fabio and Kelly B., so I definitely think I deserve to be here; like, I worked hard for my spot and you're not gonna take that away from me," she then tells him. Marty is still skeptical of Alina's strategic abilities: "So what you're telling me is you voted in the minority every time for the first half of the game, then you merged and rode Benry's coattails for a couple of Tribal Councils and finally when Benry got voted off on Day 36, you decided to step up?" he questions her. "That's it, exactly," Brenda chimes in. "Thanks, Brenda," Alina comments. "I just want to make sure I have everything," Marty then finishes. "Thanks, Marty," Jeff says, as Marty returns to the bench.

Benry is next to ask his question: "Jane, yes or no, have you ever seen Survivor before?" he begins. "I watched this game for 10 years and I dreamed of playin' it," Jane responds. Benry rebuts: "You were smart to get rid of me; I'll give you that, but if you've really watched this game like you say, uh, you should have known that choosing Mary from All-Stars [Samoa] as your Survivor role model <Fabio is shown, as he bursts out laughing> and burning every single bridge up here is not gonna earn you any love from the jury." Benry then turns his attention to Brenda: "Brenda, throughout the game, I think you were arrogant; you thought you were smarter than everyone. What I wanna know is: are you sitting there convinced that you won the game?" "I think you have to be a little cocky because if you don't think you can win, then why even bother coming here? Why come to the final Tribal Council?" Brenda responds to his accusations. "I love this game and I played it just as well as anybody who's won. I know that you're, like, in love with Alina, but...she didn't play a strong game strategically. I just tell it how it is; that's it." Benry doesn't buy her answer: "If you were so confident in your own game, maybe you wouldn't have to knock somebody else's so much," referring to her diminishing Alina's strategy during Jill's answer. He then congratulates Alina for making it to the Final Three and tells her to hang in there.

Kelly B. is up next and asks Brenda and Alina if they ever really planned on taking her to the Final Three or if they were just playing her. "Up until we voted Fabio out, I was planning on going to the Final Three with you and Fabio," Brenda tells her. "For real. But the strategy changed that day, my alliances changed, and I thought that I had a better chance against Alina and Jane." Alina tells Kelly B. that she made an alliance with Brenda and Jane when Fabio was voted off, so she didn't plan on taking Kelly B. to the end. "I honestly think you could have won, and you have to take the people that you have the best chances of winning against," Alina then explains. Kelly B. thanks them for their answers and returns to the bench.

Jimmy T. is next up and addresses Brenda first. "You wouldn't help me out when I needed your vote for me to stay, so why should I help you tonight by giving you my vote?" he asks. "It wasn't anything personal against you," Brenda explains. "I was just sticking to our plan." She continues that all it took was getting him out and then Jane, and she could have gone to the Final Three with either Fabio and Kelly B. or Benry and Alina. "I think you're a good guy, but there was no reason for me to keep you in," she finishes. Jimmy T. then addresses Jane, reminding her that he lost all respect for her. "What I would like from you is an apology for the Espada tribe," he then requests. "Alright. You don't like me; I get it," Jane begins her answer, "but you of all people should understand the way I played the game because you haven't had the easiest life and you need the money like I do..." "And yet I still had some honor and integrity," Jimmy T. speaks up. "That's what you call voting out Danny and Tyrone?" Jane questions him. Jimmy T. admits that those were game moves but says that the difference is he didn't dance on their graves and treat them like garbage. "No; the difference is that your moves were unprovoked, and now y'all are calling me out when y'all did the exact same thing first? Okay? Where I come from that's called a hypocrite. And I'm not sorry about any way I played the game," Jane finally tells him. "That's why you lost," an agitated Jimmy T. blurts out.

Fabio is now up and greets all of the finalists. "Brenda, congratulations. It was cool watching you play your game, you know? You've definitely got some mad skills, man, and I respect you," he says. "Alina, I think that you kinda viewed this adventure the way I did. You know, what are you gonna take from Nicaragua besides the money?" he asks her. "Gosh, I'm taking away so many things from Nicaragua," Alina tells him, before giving a brief answer about how the game made her a better and stronger person. "I can't wait to get home and go out into life and into the art world," she continues. "I'm really excited about it. I know I can handle anything and be independent. That's one of the things I'm going to take home with me." Fabio considers her response. "Jane, you seemed like you had no problem lying and backstabbing people, man; it seemed like that came pretty easy to you," he tells her, "so...if it wasn't the conniving and politicking, you know, what was the hardest part for Jane?" Fabio then asks. "Okay; the La Flor people think I'm some liar because y'all didn't know me until the merge," Jane begins her answer. "I started the game with honesty and loyalty. Okay? I did. I saved Jimmy T. at the first Tribal Council because I didn't want to side with Jill, and I was loyal to that alliance two times [when] they betrayed me. It was real hard for me to lie. With Marty, Jill, and Jimmy T., it served them right; they stabbed me in the back first, but the hardest one was Benry because I voted him out and he was plannin' on takin' me to the end. <The camera shows Benry looking unsympathetic> You know, I always knew I could make fire and catch fish; that part really wasn't hard, but...the hardest thing was sleepin' on the bamboo," she laughs. "It is not comfortable no matter which way you sleep on it." Fabio thanks them for their answers and then wishes them good luck.

Finally, Jeff calls on NaOnka to finish it out: "I don't want to just talk to the Final Three; I want to talk to the whole Final Five, cause these last three days of the game, I don't even know if I was watching Survivor: Nicaragua. I thought I was watching the Wizard of freakin' Oz," she begins, much to the surprise and confusion of the other jurors. "You all seemed like you played a character," she continues. "Fabio was the Scarecrow cause he didn't have a brain this whole game. Fabio, either you played dumb pretty good or it wasn't an act," she then says to Fabio, causing him to burst out laughing again. "Kelly B., even though she's strong and she overcame a lot because of her leg, I view her as the Cowardly Lion cause she never made any big moves for herself. She let herself be carried here by Brenda until it was too late to play. <The camera now shows Kelly B.

Survivor: Nicaragua Fanfic

simply staring ahead> Jane, I thought you were the sweet older woman who wanted to take care of her farm, but...you turned out to be the Wicked Witch of Nicaragua that betrayed everyone. <Several jurors can be seen reacting to this comment, while Jane seems unfazed> You even got rid of Alina's dog, being Benry. <Benry is then shown with a "WTF?" look on his face> Brenda, you were like my ally throughout the game; you were my sister, but these last couple days, you turned out to be the Tin Man cause you didn't have the heart when it came to seeing your family. You know, you tried to play this game without any emotions. And Alina, Lord knows I didn't like you in the game and...I tried to get you out a whole mess of times, but...you impressed me tonight more than anybody else. <Alina is now shown looking somewhat surprised> I admire your realness and your fight, so to me, you're Dorothy, girl. You're the complete package of what everybody else lacked: you weren't the most strategic player up here but you played smart; you made big moves; you weren't the wicked witch; and you weren't afraid to show what was truly in your heart. You know, you were strong within yourself," she continues. "You have been a part of this amazing, beautiful journey, and...I don't know if you're gonna win tonight, cause I think a lot of the votes are gonna go to Brenda, <Brenda is shown with a thoughtful look on her face> but...I truly hope at the end of your yellow-brick road, you know, somewhere over that rainbow, you'll find a million dollars." NaOnka's words are impactful both on the jury and on the three finalists, causing Alina to become emotional. With this surprising speech resonating in everyone's minds, the jury members cast their votes for the winner.

Benry casts his vote for Alina due to their close friendship and alliance. Marty casts his vote for Brenda out of respect for her strategic gameplay and says that NaOnka's speech "was a joke." Shannon casts his vote for Alina, while Kelly B. casts her vote for Brenda (after taking a long time to decide at the voting confessional). Finally, NaOnka casts her vote and says "You really deserve this." Many of the other jurors have a difficult time deciding, and the other votes remain a mystery.
